ABSTRACT

Staff at the Maryland State Department of Education annually summarize the enrollment statistics for nonpublic schools in the state under state authorization. Each August, enrollment surveys are sent to nonpublic school systems registered with the state. In 1997, the response was 97.4%. The list of schools surveyed includes both accredited and church exempt entities serving children in prekindergarten through grade 12. It does not include schools providing only religious education, day care facilities, or children being home-schooled. The number of students in nonpublic schools continues to increase. There were 170,285 students reported in this year, compared with 165,690, an overall increase of 2.8%. The largest nonpublic school populations are in Montgomery and Baltimore counties, which together represent 43% of the total nonpublic enrollment. The following tables are included: (1) nonpublic school enrollment and graduates; (2) Catholic school enrollment and graduates; (3) non-Catholic school enrollment and graduates; (4) nonpublic school enrollment by grade; (5) Catholic school enrollment by grade; (6) non-Catholic school enrollment by grade; (7) nonpublic school enrollment; (8) graduates of nonpublic schools; (9) number of nonpublic schools; (10) number of Catholic schools; and (11) number of non-Catholic schools. Introduction

Staff at the Maryland State Department of Education annually summarize the enrollment statistics for nonpublic schools in the State. This date collection is authorized under Section 2-205, (o) of the Education Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Each year, at the end of August, enrollment surveys are sent to each nonpublic school registered with the State. To ensure a strong response for schools which do not respond to the initial request a series of follow-up strategies are used, including repeat mailings and telephone calls to the schools. This year, the survey process achieved a response rate of 97.4 percent.

The list of schools surveyed includes both accredited and church exempt entities serving children in grades prekindergarten through twelve. Both parochial and private schools are included, as well as nursery schools. This report does not include students attending only day care or schools which provide only religious education. It also does not include students being instructed at home by their parent(s).

As with public school enrollments, the number of students attending nonpublic schools continues to increase. There were 170,285 students reported this year compared with 165,690 in the 1996-97 school year. This equates to an overall increase of 2.8 percent. In the 1992-93 school year there was a total of 148,714 students enrolled. The percent increase since then is 14.5 percent.

The jurisdiction with the largest nonpublic school populations are Montgomery and Baltimore counties. Montgomery has 37,854 students and Baltimore has 35,077. These two counties represent 43 percent of the total nonpublic enrollment.

The counties which had the largest percent increase in private school enrollments between September 1996 and September 1997 were Charles and Dorchester. Charles County nonpublic enrollments increased 31.8 percent and the counts in Dorchester increased 29.7 percent. Allegany and Worcester counties have each shown an approximate seven percent decline.

The difference in the rate of increase between Catholic and non-Catholic total enrollment counts is about two percent. The Catholic school enrollment increase since the 1992-93 school year is 11.6 percent and a 16.2 percent increase for non-catholic schools.

Prekindergarten enrollment, 40,058 students, comprises nearly one quarter of the total nonpublic school enrollment. The following bar chart compares the prekindergarten enrollment with the enrollments in grades kindergarten through 8 and grades 9 through 12.

The number of nonpublic schools has also increased. In 1992 there were a total of 985 private schools. Of these, 169 were Catholic schools. Currently there are 1,109 schools which reported enrollment information. The number of Catholic schools dropped to 165.

Number of Schools

Year	Total	Catholic	Non-Catholic
1992	985	169	816
1993	996	171	825
1994	1,024	167	857
1995	1,113	170	943
1996	1,105	166	939
1997	1,109	165	944

Tables 9 through 12 contain counts of the number of schools by school type. The different school types are defined as a school organization with the primary purpose of educating students in the grades indicated below:

Prek/Kgn Only	- prekindergarten and/or kindergarten
Elementary	- prekindergarten through 8
Middle	- 6 through 8
Secondary	- 9 through 12
Combined	- which have some overlapping combination of elementary, middle, and secondary schools

Enrollment in Catholic schools comprises nearly 36 percent of the total nonpublic enrollment yet 53 percent of the nonpublic high school graduates are from Catholic schools. These data differ only slightly from those reported in 1992. At that time the percentages were 37.5 percent of the enrollment and 54.6 percent of the total graduates.
